

Welcome to Azuli Skye!

What started as a hobby has turned into a life changing passion for me and our Azuli Skye Consultants. A few years ago, a dear friend and I got together with a group of women to make Mother's bracelets with our children's names and birthstones.

Soon, I was receiving requests from these friends to have parties of their own, not just to design Mother's bracelets, but to choose jewelry in their favorite colors.

Before long, mainly from word of mouth, I was having more parties than I'd ever dreamed possible. I quickly discovered these parties were about much more than sharing a love of jewelry.

I had a lot in common with my guests - we were mostly all stay-at-home moms with very young children in need of some "Me" time! Our get-togethers were a chance for all of us to relax and reconnect, and after every one, I had such a wonderful, satisfied feeling.

After one of the parties, I felt the challenge to find a way to offer this experience to other women.

This is how Azuli Skye was born!

What started as one little party has turned into a business that works for any woman who has a love for jewelry and a desire to shape her own destiny.

For many of our Consultants, their excitement for the product and opportunity is so contagious that they end up building their own team.

I, along with my husband Allan, am proud to provide women from all the across the United States an opportunity to take control of their finances and their futures. We offer a dynamic collection of beautiful jewelry that truly has something for everyone.

Our gorgeous collection is handcrafted by jewelry artisans at our Headquarters in North Carolina, and we are committed to using only the finest materials the world has to offer. Sterling Silver, Swarovski crystals, semi-precious gems and custom handmade beads are the cornerstones of our stunning designs.

Thank you so much for taking the time to get to know Azuli Skye. Whether you are interested in becoming a Consultant or one of our loyal customers, I invite you to share in our world of Endless Possibilities!